REGARDING: d-con(R) Bait Pellets My inquiry is based on human consumption. I was poisoned using a pellet based product of yours. Obviously you are not to blame for how someone chooses to use your product and legally I cannot at this point prove anything. I know by lab analysis that I was poisoned by a pesticide. By visual cues I twice saw poison on the counter. I am putting two and two together. I was confused a long time because I thought the pellets were coated with a green substance but I cannot say that was the product she used. It matched what I had bought but she may have purchased a

Thanks for your response. I don't trust doctors, I just fired a doctor this week. The doctor in question does not want to believe I was poisoned. Granted it was 14 years ago, but I had been told by an ND that the encapsulated toxin could create a health issue any time.

I will continue to take each day at a time. If I die I die. I am worn out from an apathetic society.
